

MARKETMORE 76

Classic cucumber variety with vigorous plant and medium cycle. It has andromonoicous flowering, producing fruits 25 cm long with dark-green skin. It is recommended for open field crops. High resistance (HR) to cladosporium cucumerinum (Ccu).

Categories: CUCUMBER

INFORMAZIONI AGGIUNTIVE

|                |                                                     |
|----------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| Botanical Name | Cucumis sativus L.                                  |
| Produced by    | Esasem                                              |
| Variety        | Marketmore 76                                       |
| Typology       | Slicer                                              |
| Flowering      | Andromonoecious                                     |
| Shape          | Elongated cylindrical, dark green with white spines |
| Lenght         | 25                                                  |
| Plant          | Vigorosa                                            |
| Cycle          | Medium                                              |
| Use            | Open Field                                          |
| Strength       | HR: Ccu, HR: CMV                                    |

